

fault-finders who think that everything is dishonest. The public never believes there was anything wrong in this race, as is evidenced by the record crowds to operate in just the same manner, and leave it to the public to decide who is honest.

N. C. A. Makes Vigorous Denial.

The National Cycling Association is also vigorous in its denial of the charges of fraud. F. P. Kelley, Chairman of the Racing Board, and referee at the Garden, says that the charges are unfair and silly.

"Do you think for a moment," asked Mr. Kelley, "that we would involve the integrity of an old concern like the N. C. A. for the mere daily pay for services? Mr. Powers has absolutely nothing to do with the running of this race," said Mr. Kelley, "and any attempt on his part to interfere would be resented."

"The officials are all appointed by the N. C. A., and Mr. Powers has not even suggested names for appointment. The Racing Board attends to that. The rules of this race may have worked handily on some of the riders, but we cannot help that. They know the rules when they entered, and we can do nothing more than enforce them. If there is any fraud connected with the six-day race, I have never seen it. Such accusations are silly."

Riders Deny Story of Strike.

Floyd MacFarland and other riders deny the statements that the six-day riders were on strike. They assert vehemently that their action in riding slowly for two hours was done in the interests of humanity. They wanted to give Vanderstuyt an opportunity to recover from the shock of his headlong drive into a box this morning so that he could continue in the race.

"Some of the riders are naturally disgusted," said MacFarland, "at not having gained their laps. They should not blame the judges, if anything is wrong, it is the rules, and the judges are merely observing them. There is no strike, and before night you will see some of the liveliest racing that has ever been seen in a six-day race."

When Police Commissioner Bingham was asked to-day if he intended to suppress the six-day race he admitted that eighteen crooks had been taken from Madison Square Garden last night, and that more complaints had been received at the Tenderloin station this week than any preceding week in its history owing to the alarming number of thefts committed during the race.

Woman Hurt in Spill.

Eight riders and a woman spectator were hurt in a serious spill and smash-up before dawn to-day. Two of the riders, Vanderstuyt and Hopper, were severely injured, and six others were painfully hurt. The woman, who was in a box at the track side, was removed from the Garden unconscious. Her companions in the party refused to give her name.

She was hurt by Vanderstuyt, who was flung as from a catapult into the box, his head striking the rail, his unconscious body striking against the woman, carrying her to the floor.

Hopper, who was immediately behind Vanderstuyt, was hurled from his wheel far out upon the track and picked up bleeding from a great gash in his forehead.

The accident occurred on the embankment of the Fourth avenue side of the track, at the "Hoodoo Corner" where Hollister was badly injured yesterday, and where Minny Nelson was killed four years ago.

WASHINGTON RELIC LEFT UNGUARDED

Priceless Punch Bowl Rescued by the Mayor and Taken to Safe Place.

Workmen are renovating the Governor's Room in the City Hall. They have torn out the walls and are redecorating them with gold moldings and mural paintings. A punch bowl and a desk, once the property of George Washington, were among the principal ornaments of the historic chamber.

Borough President Ahearn discovered that proper arrangements for the protection of these precious relics had not been made by the workmen, and he ordered that the bowl be taken to a place of greater safety.

"Gracious, look at that Washington punch bowl!" was the exclamation of the Mayor, who had just seen it. It is priceless, and one of the city's most valued possessions. Get it to some safe place at once!"

Borough President Ahearn directed one of his secretaries to take charge of the bowl, and he himself directed its removal, when the Mayor arrived at the scene.

Don't let that man handle the bowl alone," he shouted, "he might break it. Help him, somebody, quick, or he will smash it."

The relic is a heavy bowl, presented to Washington by the City in commemoration of the opening of great canal improvements, and it is valued at $100,000.

The bowl was taken into the private office of Borough President Ahearn, and the other relics will be taken in charge by the Art Commission for safekeeping until the repairs are completed.

FIRE CHAPLIN DINES

HEAD OF DEPARTMENT

Bachelor Prepared All of the Twenty Courses Himself in Brooklyn Home.

Fire Commissioner Laney and his staff are to-day showing no ill effects of the twenty course dinner prepared and served by Fire Chaplain H. A. Handel, of Brooklyn, in honor of the Commissioner and his staff. The dinner was served at his home, No. 100 South Ninth street.

Fire Commissioner Laney, his brother, Police Captain Laney, Deputy Commissioner, Hugh Penner, and Charles J. Seely, Alfred Downs, and about twenty others were present.

BUCK UP, GIRLS; HERE'S A REAL LORD IN TOWN

And Young Men of Fashion, Take Notice: His Lordship Wears a Shawl Instead of a Greatcoat.

There's a new fashion in town. It was brought to us to-day on the White Star liner Baltic by young Lord Turnour, M. P., who is the first cousin of the Duke of Marlborough, the only son of the Earl of Winterton and the heir to the Shillinglease estate, all of which entitles him to sit in two chairs at the table.

The young lord didn't wear an overcoat. Instead he was wrapped, like a blanketed infant, in a huge gray shawl, and he held together under the chin with the very dearest love of a gold safety-pin you ever saw.

"This," he explained to the dazed ship news reporters, "is the very latest thing among the fellows on the other side. Really, I very much prefer me shawl to a greatcoat now. I expect to wear it during my stay here."

If he does there will be doings. Along with Lord Turnour were Mr. Harold Piers, M. P., Mrs. Harcourt Piers, R. P., of London, and Ellis Robinson, R. P., of Philadelphia. Robinson, you know, who has been spending the last three years in England and who is going to introduce his Lordship into society here.

It has been stated in the cable dispatches that Marlborough's cousin expected to do a little matrimonial campaigning among the larger American fortunes while in our midst. Nor did he deny the sort of impression which the interviewers fired the question at him on the dock.

"Am I looking for an American heiress?" he repeated. "Sure, I am!" (Evidently that his Lordship speaks United States as well as his native tongue.) "Bring me a few more, will you? I'll marry them fast enough. What I want is a peach with plenty of money."

"No, fellows, that is merely a bit of a joke. I'm over here to rest. We are going to spend five years at the Yale Club, and then we are going to Philadelphia to be Mr. Robinson's guests, and from there to Mexico, which, I gather, is some distance south of Philadelphia."

His Lordship is a rather small, good-looking young man, and is said to be very docile and well-behaved. He ought to do well here, although the market is somewhat sluggish just now owing to unfavorable advices from Blenheim Castle and the Chateau de Castellane, in France.

His Lordship's familiar title when he is at home is "the baby of Parliament." He has more aristocratic aims and the spending of wads of money soon after his twenty-first birthday and while he is still under the tutelage of Oxford. Titled families placed over a score of motor cars at his disposal for the occasion.

In order to understand what a drag the young lord had with the English aristocracy, it might be mentioned that he is grandson of the First Duke of Abercorn and the Sixth Duke of Bedford. He is the son of the Duke of Abercorn, and she is the daughter of the Duke of Bedford, although she has been doing anything for it, so far as can be learned.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Morgan, Jr., and their three children were also on the Baltic. They came over to spend Christmas at home, Craig Wadsworth, Secretary of the American Embassy at London, was a passenger.

ROCKLAND, Me., Dec. 14.—The battleship Kansas, which made a satisfactory showing yesterday on her screw standardization trial started to-day for a four hours endurance run on the coast toward Cape Ann. On this run the battleship must show an average speed of eighteen knots an hour to meet her contract requirements.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 14.—The worst snowstorm in years is reported by the railroad companies which have western extensions. The trains in Western North Dakota on every line are snowed out, and in some cases are lost track of.

It is even reported that some of the Great Northern through trains are completely snowed in and cannot be plied twenty feet high, and traffic is at a standstill.

The only coast trains that have arrived over the Northern Pacific great Northern and St. Paul lines in the last twenty-four hours have been from

GIVES UP $10,000 NECKLACE FOR LOVE NOTES

Davis Returns Gems to Mrs. Dwelle and Keeps Missives from Public.

(Continued from First Page.)

days? A. Mr. Davis wanted me to sell it. How much did you pay for it? A. I don't remember.

Mother Gave Her Money.

Q. Haven't you testified that you paid $2,000 cash and gave notes for the balance? A. I believe that is true.

Q. Where did you get the money? A. My mother gave me some and I drew the rest from the bank.

Q. What bank? A. I don't remember. Q. Who did you buy the necklace from? A. Joseph Friedlander.

Q. Is Friedlander a pawnbroker? A. I am not sure, but I believe so.

Mr. Blumenthal objected to further examination along this line. Mr. Davis said he wanted to show that Mrs. Dwelle was in the business of selling jewelry for pawnbrokers, and that she got the necklace in dispute from Friedlander for the sole purpose of unloading it on Davis.

Mrs. Levy went while the lawyers argued. Finally Mr. Blumenthal said that Friedlander was on his way to New York and would testify in the case. Mr. Hess resumed the examination.

Q. Did you ever go by the name of Armstrong in Memphis? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know a man named Armstrong there? A. I know several Armstrongs.

Q. Did you know Shanley's road house outside Memphis? A. I have heard of it, but was never there.

Q. How much money did Davis give you? A. Between $7,000 and $8,000 for my trousseau.

Mr. Hess went into details about the trousseau. He questioned Mrs. Dwelle about the various items, and she said that she bought until she broke down and sobbed. Then he brought in the witness who did not remember when she and Davis became engaged. She could not tell whether it was in September or October.

Q. Do you know that Davis had an account at the Union Trust and Savings Bank of Memphis? A. Certainly.

Q. Does that help you to fix the date of your alleged engagement? A. I don't know what you mean by "alleged engagement." I have already told you that.

Q. Why did he give you so much money? A. Well, you know, Mr. Hess, a person can always spend money.

Q. What part of your trousseau did you buy? A. I would have to show you my clothes to answer that question.

Q. In the shape of checks drawn to the order of by brother-in-law, F. M. Levy? A. Why did he make checks payable to Mr. Levy? A. Well, Memphis is a small town and he was afraid if I cashed the checks myself it would compromise me.

Check Book Will Tell.

Q. How much did he give you altogether? A. You can tell that by looking at his check book.

Mr. Davis scratched his head at this and then said that he had no recollection of the check book. He said that he signed the checks in Memphis, and that he seemed an account for Mrs. Dwelle in her own name in a Memphis bank. Mr. Hess continued to question him on the trousseau until Judge Mayo asked him what he was driving at.

"If he is perfectly transparent," said Davis, "he is not a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau."

"If you mean to insinuate by that," cried Mr. Blumenthal, "that Mrs. Dwelle is a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau, then I am sorry to hear it. This defendant and my client were not as pure as the driven snow. The defendant is a liar. You're a big bluff, anyhow."

"Call me," demanded Mr. Hess, striking the table. "Call me if you think I am a bluff."

Mr. Hess couldn't trap me," replied Mrs. Dwelle, complacently. "I admit that you are a very clever man."

"Coming from a Southern beauty," said Mr. Hess, "that is a compliment on the third button of his vest. That is a high compliment, indeed."

"I am not trying to trap you," assured Mr. Hess.

"On your own trap me," replied Mrs. Dwelle, "I am not a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau. I am a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau."

"I am not trying to trap you," assured Mr. Hess.

"On your own trap me," replied Mrs. Dwelle, "I am not a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau. I am a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau."

"I am not trying to trap you," assured Mr. Hess.

"On your own trap me," replied Mrs. Dwelle, "I am not a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau. I am a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau."

"I am not trying to trap you," assured Mr. Hess.

"On your own trap me," replied Mrs. Dwelle, "I am not a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau. I am a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau."

Mrs. Dwelle as She Looked in the Police Court To-Day

MRS. ADAMS NOT ENGAGED TO DAD, SAYS BROWN'S SON

(Continued from First Page.)

then about twenty years old. Senator Brown was sixty-three at the time of his death.

Know of Mrs. Bradley.

When she became engaged to marry Senator Brown, following the death of his wife a year ago, Mrs. Adams knew all about his relations with Mrs. Bradley. She says she urged the Senator to marry the woman who had borne him two children, and she said that she was not as pure as the driven snow. The defendant is a liar. You're a big bluff, anyhow."

"Call me," demanded Mr. Hess, striking the table. "Call me if you think I am a bluff."

Mr. Hess couldn't trap me," replied Mrs. Dwelle, complacently. "I admit that you are a very clever man."

"Coming from a Southern beauty," said Mr. Hess, "that is a compliment on the third button of his vest. That is a high compliment, indeed."

"I am not trying to trap you," assured Mr. Hess.

"On your own trap me," replied Mrs. Dwelle, "I am not a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau. I am a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau."

"I am not trying to trap you," assured Mr. Hess.

"On your own trap me," replied Mrs. Dwelle, "I am not a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau. I am a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau."

"I am not trying to trap you," assured Mr. Hess.

"On your own trap me," replied Mrs. Dwelle, "I am not a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau. I am a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau."

"I am not trying to trap you," assured Mr. Hess.

"On your own trap me," replied Mrs. Dwelle, "I am not a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau. I am a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau."

"I am not trying to trap you," assured Mr. Hess.

"On your own trap me," replied Mrs. Dwelle, "I am not a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau. I am a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau."

"I am not trying to trap you," assured Mr. Hess.

"On your own trap me," replied Mrs. Dwelle, "I am not a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau. I am a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau."

"I am not trying to trap you," assured Mr. Hess.

"On your own trap me," replied Mrs. Dwelle, "I am not a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau. I am a woman money for the purchase of a trousseau."

"I am not trying to trap you," assured Mr. Hess.

POPE SAYS THE CHURCH WILL STAND IN WAR

Official Statement from Vatican Shows Pontiff Holding Firm.

(Continued from First Page.)

ROME, Dec. 14.—The Pope and the Papal Secretary of State, Cardinal Merry del Val, have refused all requests to grant interviews for publication on the Franco-Vatican situation. But the following statement is authorized by the Vatican:

"The situation may be summarized as follows: 'The Concordat, the most solemn bilateral contract, has not yet been denounced by the French Government, which wishes to establish a new legal standing for the Church in France.'

"The Government did not agree with the Holy See on this subject, and repeatedly and openly showed hostility toward the head of the Church."

"Violence may prevail for a time, but those who are suffering from this state of oppression preserve all their rights and claims."

"The explosion of joy among the Masonic and demagogic societies as a result of the persecution on the part of the government shows that the war is against the Church and religion. Notwithstanding the bills passed and regulations adopted, France at the present time has no law granting religious liberty to those who do not comply with the law providing for the separation of Church and State."

"The one good point in the circular issued recently by the French Minister of Public Worship, M. Briand, is his confession that it is impossible to apply to cultural associations the laws of 1880, which were adopted for the regulation of other associations' meetings. Therefore what is needed is a new law providing for religious liberty, instead of arbitrary Ministerial circulars."

"The loyalty and good-will of the Holy See under similar circumstances was shown in Brazil."

"There was a monarchy in de Concordat, both of which the Republics suppressed, and proclaimed their separation from the Holy See, under certain reserves. Later on, the Republics came to understanding with the Vatican and a Papal Nuncio was accredited to Rio Janeiro, while a Brazilian Minister was accredited to the Vatican."

"The search of the Nunciature at Paris and the expulsion from France of Mgr. Montagnini, Secretary of the Nunciature, were steps taken with a view of ending the controversy. The false statements circulated later and which were said to have originated from the Nunciature, such as the report that some of the French Episcopate and clergy were ready to make applications to old religious meetings."

"There is no truth in the statement. The Holy See will not proceed to the making of applications under to law, but takes exception to the whole spirit of the circular issued by Minister of Public Worship Briand."

POLICE CLASH WITH FRENCH STUDENTS.

PARIS, Dec. 14.—While students were evacuating the seminary at Angers to-day a number of manifestos pointed the local authorities with eggs and attacked them with sticks.

The police made twelve arrests, the prisoners including some of the seminary students.

The first day of the regime of the separation of Church and State having passed without grave disorders, public interest in the details of the controversy has been greatly lessened.

It is now apparent that the resistance of the clergy will be purely moral, and that there is no prospect of religious passions being aroused unless the Government resorts to force.

The action, a violent Socialist organ, to-day made an attack on the Government, and created a heated controversy. The action, a violent Socialist organ, to-day made an attack on the Government, and created a heated controversy.

The action, a violent Socialist organ, to-day made an attack on the Government, and created a heated controversy.

The action, a violent Socialist organ, to-day made an attack on the Government, and created a heated controversy.

The action, a violent Socialist organ, to-day made an attack on the Government, and created a heated controversy.

The action, a violent Socialist organ, to-day made an attack on the Government, and created a heated controversy.

The action, a violent Socialist organ, to-day made an attack on the Government, and created a heated controversy.

The action, a violent Socialist organ, to-day made an attack on the Government, and created a heated controversy.

The action, a violent Socialist organ, to-day made an attack on the Government, and created a heated controversy.

The action, a violent Socialist organ, to-day made an attack on the Government, and created a heated controversy.

The action, a violent Socialist organ, to-day made an attack on the Government, and created a heated controversy.

The action, a violent Socialist organ, to-day made an attack on the Government, and created a heated controversy.

The action, a violent Socialist organ, to-day made an attack on the Government, and created a heated controversy.

The action, a violent Socialist organ, to-day made an attack on the Government, and created a heated controversy.

The action, a violent Socialist organ, to-day made an attack on the Government, and created a heated controversy.

The action, a violent Socialist organ, to-day made an attack on the Government, and created a heated controversy.

The action, a violent Socialist organ, to-day made an attack on the Government, and created a heated controversy.

The action, a violent Socialist organ, to-day made an attack on the Government, and created a heated controversy.

The action, a violent Socialist organ, to-day made an attack on the Government, and created a heated controversy.

TORTURED BY ITCHING ECZEMA

Suffered Tremendous Itching Over Whole Body—Scratched Until Bled—Worse at Night, With Soreness and Excruciating Pains—A Western Lady's

WONDERFUL CURE BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"Last year at this time I suffered with a tremendous itching on my back, which grew worse and worse, until it spread over the whole body, and only my face and hands were free. For four months or so I suffered the tortures of the damned, and I had to scratch, scratch, scratch, until I bled. At night, when I went to bed things got worse, and I had at times to get up and scratch my body all over, until I was as sore as could be, and until I suffered excruciating pains. I did not know what it was, and resorted to a number of blood purifiers, using times also Cuticura Soap. They told me then that I was suffering from eczema. Then I made up my mind that I would also use Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent. I used them according to instructions, and very soon indeed I was greatly relieved. I continued until well, and now I am ready to recommend the Cuticura Remedies to any one who suffers as I did. My obedient servant, Mrs. Mary Metzger, Sweetwater, Okla., June 28, 1902."

TORTURING, DISFIGURING Humors, Eczemas, and Itchings Cured by Cuticura

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema, the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis, the loss of hair and crusting of scalp, as in scalled head—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent are such stands proven beyond all doubt.

Sold throughout the world. Cuticura Soap, 25¢; Ointment, 50¢; Resolvent, 50¢. (In form of Chocolate Candy, 25¢; in form of Cuticura Soap, 25¢; in form of Cuticura Ointment, 50¢; in form of Cuticura Resolvent, 50¢.)

Prepared by J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass., U.S.A.

THE REGINA MUSIC BOX

The Regina Music Box plays everything from rag-time to grand opera. There is nothing to do but change the tune discs and listen.

Our Broadway store is the home of everything in musical instruments of the present.

Broadway and Seventeenth St.

DIED.

PLUNKETT, W. H. PLUNKETT, ex-postmaster, beloved husband of Mary A. Plunkett, died at his residence, 871 Elton ave., Sunday, Dec. 10, at 1 P. M. Interment Calvary.

CALLANAN, On Dec. 12, after a brief illness, JOHN CALLANAN, beloved husband of Maria Ford, died at his residence, 1064 56th ave., on Sunday at 1 P. M. Interment Calvary.

CLARK, On Wednesday, Dec. 12, after a short illness, EDWARD T. CLARK, aged 44 years, at his residence, 25 Lawton st., Brooklyn, died at 10 P. M. Interment Evergreen Cemetery.

CLARK, On Saturday, Dec. 10, at 1 P. M. Interment Evergreen Cemetery.

CLARK, On Saturday, Dec. 10, at 1 P. M. Interment Evergreen Cemetery.

CLARK, On Saturday, Dec. 10, at 1 P. M. Interment Evergreen Cemetery.

CLARK, On Saturday, Dec. 10, at 1 P. M. Interment Evergreen Cemetery.

CLARK, On Saturday, Dec. 10, at 1 P. M. Interment Evergreen Cemetery.

CLARK, On Saturday, Dec. 10, at 1 P. M. Interment Evergreen Cemetery.

CLARK, On Saturday, Dec. 10, at 1 P. M. Interment Evergreen Cemetery.

CLARK, On Saturday, Dec. 10, at 1 P. M. Interment Evergreen Cemetery.

CLARK, On Saturday, Dec. 10, at 1 P. M. Interment Evergreen Cemetery.

CLARK, On Saturday, Dec. 10, at 1 P. M. Interment Evergreen Cemetery.

CLARK, On Saturday, Dec. 10, at 1 P. M. Interment Evergreen Cemetery.

CLARK, On Saturday, Dec. 10, at 1 P. M. Interment Evergreen Cemetery.

CLARK, On Saturday, Dec. 10, at 1 P. M. Interment Evergreen Cemetery.

CLARK, On Saturday, Dec. 10, at 1 P. M. Interment Evergreen Cemetery.

CLARK, On Saturday, Dec. 10, at 1 P. M. Interment Evergreen Cemetery.

White Rose Ceylon Tea

White Rose Ceylon Tea

White Rose Ceylon Tea

HIS DEATH GIVES THE DEMOCRATS CONTROL.

(Special to The Evening World.)

HACKENSACK, N. J., Dec. 14.—William H. Fairclough, a wealthy farmer of Warren Point, who was killed near El Paso, Tex., yesterday, was a member of the Bergen County Board of Freeholders. His death will give the Democratic township, due to his